

Rural 21

The International Journal for Rural Development

No. 3/2014

Volume 48
ISSN 1866-8011
D 20506 F

Bioeconomy – a future for farmers in the South?

Photo: J. Boetling

www.rural21.com

News

- 4 Where are we with the MDGs?
- 5 "Global leverage points" for sustainable food security

Focus: Bioeconomy

- 6 Bioeconomy and sustainable development – dimensions
- 10 Bioeconomy strategies across the globe
- 14 Research: Global co-operation for locally optimised solutions
- 16 Biomass-based value webs – benefits for the South
- 19 Tailoring the bioeconomy to food security
- 22 "To make the change happen, the key is to work together in partnerships"
- 24 More than just mediators
- 27 Global Bioenergy Partnership: working together for sustainable development

Photo: C. Kavenon/ferre des horizons

Photo: GIZ/IN, Jorgens

Scientific World

- 28 Increasing resource efficiency by cascading use of biomass
- 30 Cassava – how to explore the "all-sufficient"

Photo: A. Abbas

Opinion

- 32 Is Africa "ready" for an integrated bioeconomy approach?
- 34 Bioeconomy – A dead end
- Co-operation with the private sector – a viable approach?
- 36 "Development engine for small-scale farmers"
- 37 "Perilous partnerships"

Photo: A. Mochour

International Platform

- 38 Niger: Mr Issoufou and the fight against hunger
- 41 Improving healthcare through ICT for India's rural women: e-ASHA in Rajasthan