

Rural21

No. 1/2014

Volume 48

ISSN 1866-8011

D 20506 F

The International Journal for Rural Development

Spreading know-how

Photo: P. Lathi / Revision

www.rural21.com

News

- 4 WFO/Copa-Cogeca conference on family farming
- 5 UNEP calls for reassessment of global land use

Focus: Spreading know-how

- 6 Rural advisory services – back on the development agenda!
- 9 Clients and advisers, groups and networks – Clarifying roles in extension processes
- 12 Malawi – case study of a system of pluralistic extension and advisory services
- 16 Sustainably financing extension services
- 19 Management advice for family farms: an innovative approach rooted in farmer realities
- 22 Modern ICTs and rural extension: Have we reached the tipping point?
- 25 Biovision's Farmer Communication Programme: a circular knowledge dissemination system
- 28 Farmer-to-farmer knowledge exchange – the example of farmer shows in Cambodia
- 30 Africa Harvest: Combining research and rural extension to the benefit of small farmers
- 33 A (women)farmer-first approach – a case study from Papua New Guinea

Opinion

- 34 Empowering rural women in India – it's high time!

International Platform

- 36 Combining poverty alleviation, biodiversity protection and land rehabilitation: The "Green charcoal chain" in Madagascar
- 39 "Zero pesticide" vegetables for the Indian market

Scientific World

- 42 Desperate quest for resistant bananas

Photo: S. Richter

Photo: F. Kraemer/GIZ

Photo: D. Duen

Photo: GIZ/ECO